LAWCHA
The Labor and Working-Class History Association

Margaret Chanler Aldrich, “The Week Before Christmas,” December 20, 1911: Teaching Labor’s Story

Posted on May 30, 2020 by Nikki Mandell

Margaret Chanler Aldrich and the Teaching Committee have completed another section of Teaching Labor’s Story, featuring a poem first published in the New York Times. The poem was then used by the National Consumers’ League for its campaign to improve conditions for retail workers around Christmas.

Author

-

  Nikki Mandell

  Nikki Mandell is Professor Emerita at University of Wisconsin-Whitewater. She is the author of The Corporation as Family: The Gendering of Corporate Welfare, 1890-1930 (2003) and co-author of Thinking Like a Historian: Rethinking History Instruction (2008) and project director of many teaching and public history initiatives, including Teaching Labor's Story for LAWCHA

© LAWCHA. All Rights Reserved.